

TFWP in Canada Infographic

Foreign workers hired through the TFWP to fill short-term labour and skills shortages when Canadians or permanent residents are not available. An LMIA and a work permit are needed to hire a TFW through this program. A work permit is an official document issued by an immigration officer that allows someone who is not a Canadian citizen or a permanent resident to work in Canada. (Government of Canada)

Facts and Figures of 2023

Top 30 countries of origin of Temporary Foreign workers in Canada

© Australian Bureau of Statistics, GeoNames, Microsoft, Navinfo, Open Places, OpenStreetMap, TomTom, Zenrin

Powered by Bing

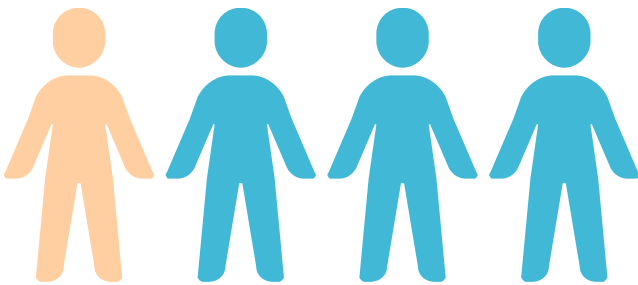

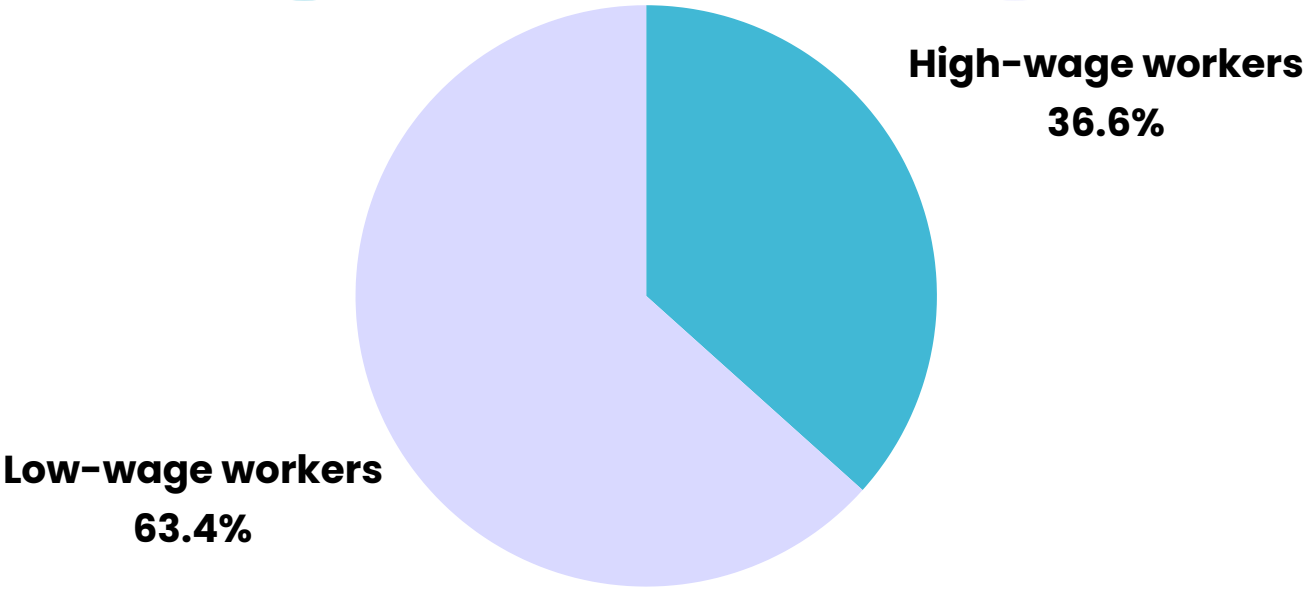

Streams of the TFWP

High-wage positions

These occupations typically require post-secondary education and include professional and technical jobs, as well as skilled trades.

Low-wage positions

These occupations typically require high school completion and/or on-the-job training and include intermediate and labour jobs

1 in 4 workers was female

TFWP throughout the 21th century in Canada

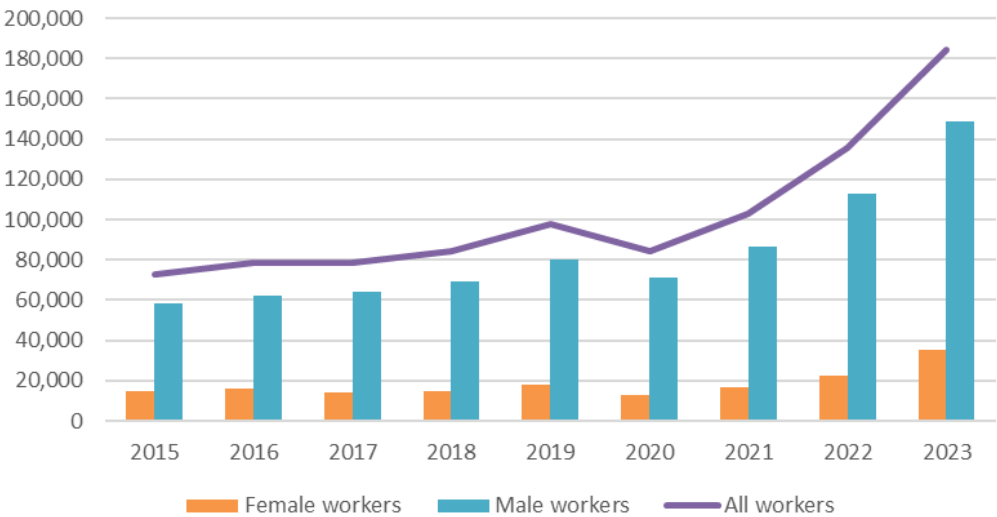

Temporary Foreign Worker Program work permit holders with a valid permit on December 31st by sexe (2006-2015)

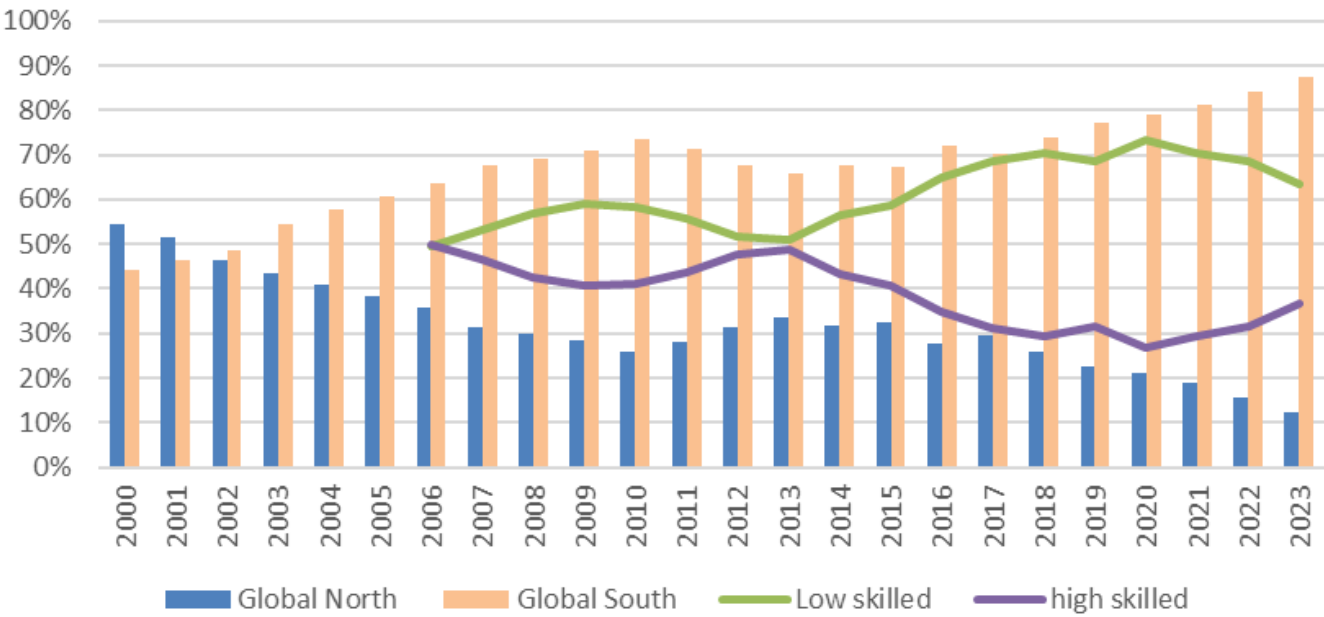

2006-2015

2015-2023

Temporary foreign workers with effective work permit(s) divided by sexe (2015-2023)

Trends in the provenance of temporary foreign workers as the demand in the type of employment fluctuates (Canada, 2000-2023)

Evolution of the type of employment occupied by Temporary Foreign Workers by sexe over the years (2006-2023)

